Mat 5:13 | Ye are the salt of the earth, but salt that is good for nothing will be trodden under foot of man

¹³ Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour ^{moraine G3471}, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

Is not the "Covenant of Salt" related to the "salt of the earth"? The word "savour" (G3471) is transliterated as "moraino" and it means to be insipid or to be a fool and a simpleton. Is this where we get the English word for moron?

JKM Modern / BCR Translation: If you are the salt of the earth then you have a salary paid to you by Elohim and which is put into the trust fund private asset account. But, if you act like a damn fool / simpleton / moron and do not access said account for the purpose of being a blessing to the world (by being the private welfare provider), then your salary/salt has lost it's savour / usefulness.

G3471 moraino KJC:4 Savour², foolish²

Μωραίνω moraino mo-rah'ee-no

From G3474; to become insipid; figuratively to make (passively act) as a simpleton: - become fool, make foolish, lose sayour.

moraino; fut. $m\bar{o}ran\dot{o}$, from $m\bar{o}r\dot{o}s$ (G3474), foolish. To make dull, not acute, to cause something to lose its taste or the purpose for which it exists, e.g., salt not being able to make things salty (Mat_5:13; Luk_14:34). Used of the mind meaning to make foolish or to show to be foolish (1Co_1:20); in the pass. (Rom_1:22, meaning they became foolish or acted like fools; see Sept.: 2Sa_24:10; Isa_19:11).

Syn.: paraphronéō (G3912), to be beside oneself.

Ant.: sōphronéō (G4993), to be of a sound mind; sōphronízō (G4994), to act with a sound mind; sophízō (G4679), to make wise.

G3474 moros KJC:

WordStudy

morós; fem. morá, neut. morón, adj. Silly, stupid, foolish, from which the Eng. word "moron" is derived. Used of persons meaning morally worthless (Mat_5:22). It is a more serious reproach than raká (G4469), raca, which scorns a man by calling him stupid, whereas morós scorns him concerning his heart and character. Used of things (2Ti_2:23 "foolish and ignorant questionings" [a.t.]; Tit_3:9). In Mat_5:13 and Luk_14:34, it refers to salt that has lost its flavor, become tasteless (moraíno [G3471]).

Deriv.: $m\bar{o}rain\bar{o}$ (G3471), to make dull; $m\bar{o}ria$ (G3472), foolishness as a personal quality; $m\bar{o}rain\bar{o}$ (G3471) in the causal sense, to make foolish, in the pass. sense, to become foolish.

Syn.: áphrōn (G878), foolish, a fool; anóetos (G453), senseless, one lacking understanding; asúnetos (G801), without discernment; ásophos (G781), unwise.

Ant.: sóphron (G4998), of sound mind; sunetós (G4908), sagacious, understanding; phrónimos (G5429), thoughtful, prudent; sophós (G4680), wise.

Strong's

Probably form the base of G3466; dull or stupid (as if shut up), that is, heedless, (morally) blockhead, (apparently) absurd: - fool (-ish, X -ishness).
